SHEEPSHEAD BAY

Lampighter the Favorite Turned Down.

Lowlander Wins the Great Suburban.

The Bookmakers are Wealthy and Jubilant and Right.

The Runner was a 10 to 1 Shot and all Kinds of Prices Were Obtainable.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, June 21.—[Associated Press.]—The Suburban handicap of 1893 was a most grievous disappointment to turf lovers. Lampighter, who was looked upon as a sure victor, was made to fall from his high pedestal; he was vanquished strictly on his merits, as the race was fairly run from the beginning. Lowlander, by Lowland Chief, dam Restless, won the race from end to end. He set the pace almost to suit himself and won as he pleased in the last time of 2:06 3/5. Terrifier second, three quarters away, while Lampighter was third, four lengths behind. Lowlander was a 10 to 1 shot in betting and all kinds of prices could be obtained. Terrifier and Lampighter were at even money. The race was worth $13,000 to the winner; $3,500 to second and $2,500 to third. The winner is owned by bookmaker Fred Rowe, who besides the neat stake won, netted many hundreds by betting.

The day opened oppressively hot, but the weather did not keep the crowd away for fully 20,000 were on the grounds when the first race was called, and people kept coming till the time set for the Suburban. The betting ring was a most animated place for everybody was anxious to bet on the great event. An immense amount was wagered on the result and most of it remained with the bookies.

The race was set for 4:50 and after several breaks the flag dropped and a good start was made with Dr. Hasbrouck in the lead and the others in a line close behind. Lowlander soon took the lead with Terrifier and Iddeleigh second and third. Hasbrouck and Lampighter followed; the others were bunched close behind. In the middle of the back stretch Lowlander and the leaders drew away from Lampighter and the rear bunch; at the head of the back stretch Iddeleigh was beaten while Lampighter and Banquet began to make a run. Lowlander turned into the homestretch three lengths before Terrifier and Dr. Hasbrouck, who were neck and neck and who were two lengths ahead of Lampighter. The flying leader never faltered and passed under the wire a rather easy winner. Terrifier second, Lampighter third.

Owing to the fight between the Sheepshead Bay authorities and Guttenburg and Fort Lee people, and also the Western Union Company, no one was allowed to leave the grounds till after the Suburban, and precautions were taken to prevent information from getting outside, hence erroneous reports were telegraphed over the country during the afternoon.

THE CASE OF REV. REAMS.

The Canadian Authorities Cant Surrender Him.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 21.—[Associated Press.]—Rev. A. R. Reams will appear in the supreme court tomorrow, but there is likely to be a further adjournment. Those who know, state, it is claimed, that the prosecution has no evidence that would warrant the surrender of Reams to Sheriff Warfield, of Merced, Cal. Reams is charged with abduction, and the abducted girl states that she is nearly 18 years old. Canadian law places the age of consent at 16 years, and it is contended that the Canadian law must apply to the case. Lucy Rucker is still at the Refuge home, and Sheriff Warfield and Chief Sheppard saw her yesterday. No one is allowed to see her without permission of the chief of police. Mr. Yates, the lawyer for Reams, wanted to see her yesterday, but the matron told him to apply to Chief Sheppard. Yates went to Chief Justice Bigbee, who said he could see her as often as he pleased.

A rumor is circulated that Miss Rucker will go home and give up Reams. Reams' boy had been carrying letters backward and forward between his father and Miss Rucker, and the frequency of the boy's visits attracted attention, with the result that he has been refused admittance to the Refuge home. Sheriff Warfield, ex-Chief of Police Rogers, of Seattle, and Barrister Lindsey Crease, who is conducting the prosecution of Reams, are busy preparing evidence, and it is expected that the prosecution will ask for a week's adjournment tomorrow so that Sheriff Warfield may return to Merced to secure the necessary proofs of Lucy's age.

THE CLOSING SCENE

In the Court House at New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 21.—[Associated Press.]—When the foreman in the Borden murder trial yesterday announced "Not Guilty," all the dignity and decorum of the court-room vanished. A cheer went up that might have been heard half a mile away and there was no attempt to check it. Miss Borden's head went down upon the railing in front of her and tears came.

Mr. Jennings was almost crying, while Mr. Adams was incapable of speech. As soon as possible the room was cleared and when the spectators were gone Miss Borden was taken to the room of the justices and allowed to recover her composure, with only the eyes of friends upon her and amid the caresses of devoted admirers. At the expiration of an hour she was placed in a carriage and driven to the station, where she took a train for Fall River, her home no longer probably, but still the only objective point for the immediate present.

ST. CLAIR CONVICTED

Of the Murder of Second Mate Fitzgerald.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—[Associated Press.]—The jury in the United States circuit court this afternoon found Thos. St. Clair guilty of the murder of Mate M. Fitzgerald of the bark Hesper, on January 15, on the voyage from Sydney, New South Wales, to Honolulu. The crime was most brutal. St. Clair, who was a sailor, had planned with the sailors to kill the officers, including the captain, seize the vessel and go to the Orient for the purpose of preying upon Chinese merchantmen. The plot was well laid, and one night when Mate Fitzgerald appeared on deck, St. Clair seized the opportunity, literally chopped him to pieces, and threw the body overboard. The atrociousness of the deed so shocked his fellow conspirators that they refused to carry out the scheme further, and the captain was warned. St. Clair and his companions were put in irons and brought to this port for trial.

AINSWORTH AND OTHERS

Give Bond for their Appearance in Criminal Court.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Col. C. F. Ainsworth, Wm. Covert, superintendent Ford's theatre and Francis Sasse, appeared voluntarily in Criminal Court before Judge McComas to-day and gave bail in $10,000 each for their appearance before Grand Jury. Dant, the contractor, was not able to appear in court but his sureties went to his house and qualified there in the same amount. The army court of inquiry to determine the responsibility of the disaster convenes probably tomorrow.

ROMANCE OF MOSES SCOTT.

Who Is Decided by the Courts to Be Dead.

A Possibility That the Supreme Court of the United States
Will Revivify Him.

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 21.—[Associated Press.]—Many years ago Moses H. Scott was a resident of Olympia, a merchant, possessed of some property. He left here years ago and up to a short time ago nothing was heard of him. During his absence his stepmother, a resident of California, proved his death to the satisfaction of the probate court and, as administratrix, sold some of the property, making a claim of being a judgment creditor. About a year ago Scott turned up in Olympia alive and well, and his identity was too well established by his appearance to require further proof. Scott commenced action in the superior court for recovery of his property, but failed. The court decided that Moses was dead. The case was appealed and the supreme court decided that Moses was still dead.

The case was carried to the supreme court of the United States, where Judges N. S. Porter and M. A. Root argued it in May. A decision has not been reached. But now an enterprising literary woman of San Francisco has seized upon the brilliant opportunity furnished by this case to write a romance, the manuscript now being ready for the publisher. A startling climax in the book is where the judge says: "In the meaning of the law Moses H. Scott is dead." However, Mr. Scott is met every day on the streets of Olympia alive and apparently well.

Who Has Lost a Hand?

PARIS, June 21.—The police have now another puzzle to solve which, though not unlike it in many respects, seems still more mysterious than the Rue Botzaris crime, where a woman's body was found cut up in twelve pieces and no trace of the criminal was ever discovered. At Drancy, the other day, in one of the Fresnoes night soil carts was found a human hand cut off at the wrist. The first supposition was that it was some relic of a dissecting room, but that was disproved on investigation, which showed that the hand had been freshly cut from some arm. It is evidently a case of crime, but up to the present time the investigations have thrown no light on it.

Paralyzed at Six Years Old.

NEW YORK, June 21.—An extraordinary case of paralysis is being treated by the physicians at Fordham Hospital. The patient is Therese Kearney, aged six years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kearney, 172 East 128th street. She was stricken suddenly ten days ago and removed to the hospital for treatment.

The sight of her left eye began to fail last Monday, and by night it was totally blind. The sight in the other eye was lost on the following day. The doctors say this is a very strange case, and that even should she recover from paralysis she will be blind the rest of her life.

The Cowboy Race.

SIoux CITY, Iowa, June 21.—Doc Middleton left here this morning after resting his injured horse twenty hours. The animal is still quite lame but improving. Middleton says he is doubtful about reaching the Mississippi.

HYPNOTIZED

By an Influential and Lying Valet.

Who Will Come into $500,000 Thereby.

A Charge Made by Relatives of the Alleged Victim.

A Niece Applies to the Courts for a Dissipation of the Peculiar Influence.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—[Associated Press.]—A strange story of hypnotic influence developed today in the proceedings brought in the common pleas court to restrain the equity filed in common pleas court No. 2.

Charles Harris, who is over 87 years old, and lives at Dover, Del., is now on his deathbed, and his niece, Sarah D. McPhail, testifies that the old man's valet, Charles Butler, by falsehood and misrepresentation, and in keeping the old man constantly under his influence induced him to make numerous changes in his will.

By these changes Mrs. McPhail claims that the greater part of Harris' fortune, amounting to $500,000, would come into Butler's possession after his death. In the bill Mrs. McPhail alleges that Butler knew there would be a contest over the will, so about 4:30 o'clock on the morning of June 14 last, he induced Mr. Harris to execute a power of attorney giving Samuel W. Hall, of Dover, Del., power to go to the Fidelity company's vaults, where Mr. Harris had most of his securities on deposit, and get some $32,000 in water bonds belonging to Mr. Harris. The Fidelity company, however, would not give the securities up simply upon the power of attorney. So early the following morning, Mrs. McPhail says, Butler forced Mr. Harris to sign an agreement under which the Fidelity was directed to give up the bonds. She immediately filed a protest with the Fidelity company against the surrender of the bonds, but the officers of the company notified her that unless restrained by the courts they would turn over the bonds to Hall this morning. Mrs. McPhail says that her uncle, Mr. Harris, has been informed of this proceeding and denies ever having given such power of attorney or signed such an agreement, and that he says he desires no one to gain access to his papers. The court was asked to restrain the defendants from transferring the bonds, to order an accounting and direct that the agreement be surrendered. Judge Brey issued a preliminary five days' injunction in the case.

MISMALED.

An Aged Indian Murdered by His Young Wife.

WHATCOM, June 21.—[Associated Press.]—An aged Indian named Dick Tuse was found dead in his house on the Lummi reservation Tuesday night. There was every indication that he had been murdered. The body lay on a couch, face upward, with a hole in the forehead, made probably with the blunt end of a common shingle hatchet.

Tuse recently married a young wife, and it is said there domestic relations were not pleasant. His wife left the reservation on Tuesday morning to visit friends in British Columbia and there is a strong suspicion that she either committed the murder herself or that it was done by a British Columbia paragon on Monday night; that he then fled, and next morning she followed him.

Tuse has two children, by a former wife, in the reservation school. The Indians are greatly excited, and their police are using every effort to apprehend the murderer.

A Railway Disaster.

NEW YORK, June 17.—A train on the Long Island railroad, upon which about 1000 persons were returning from the Sheepshead Bay races, was derailed this evening in the tunnel a short distance from Parkville. Two persons were killed outright, two died soon after being removed to a hospital, and about 100 were injured, many so seriously that they will not recover. The killed at the time of the accident were Patrick Daly, court officer, New York, and H. S. Trine, New York. Died in hospital: Henry Spink, police court marshal, New York; Robert Cutting, policeman, New York.

Dry Day Drunks.

Recorder Schwartz had six cases, all sleeping drunks before him yesterday morning. All were sent to the calaboose for terms ranging from five to ten days according to the previous record of the victim. It is somewhat singular that the largest number of drunks on any one day within six months should have been accumulated on a day when the saloons were rigidly closed. It can be accounted for only on the theory that these inebriated gentlemen had laid in a stock of liquor in anticipation of a dry day and had drunk immoderately and unusually.

Secretary Bruce's Arrival.

HEN. C. M. Bruce, the territorial secretary arrived in the city yesterday morning and will remain until he enters upon the duties of his office on July 1. He directed his predecessor to retain control until that time which is the beginning of the fiscal year. He will then take charge and give the office personal and continuous attention.

STORES ON SHIPBOARD.

Passengers Will Soon Be Able to Get What They Need in MidOcean.

The steamship men are talking of adopting another wrinkle. "It is a capital idea," said the originator, who, according to the New York Evening World, manages one of the biggest lines running between the Mersey and New York.

"It is our intention to establish a counter on every one of our ships. The department will be in charge of a landsman and an assistant, the latter a petty officer on board. It will be necessary to select a landsman, because sailor men know very little about notions counters.

"Everything to be found in a first-class dry goods store will be put on sale at this counter; everything, I say, with the possible exception of the latest fangle in bonnets and trunks.

"We'll run a full line and sell as good and as cheap as any firm on shore. The time has gone by when passengers have to be inconvenienced through an oversight in having forgotten to pack away shoe buttons, a particular kind of glove, a hair brush, a hand glass or any other article that makes human nature kind and good.

"No, we won't have any special sales, but we'll have silks and gingham in abundance, that the ladies may have a chance to while away the monotony of the voyage. It's a big scheme, and it will be a great boon to our patrons when it is fully established."

DEATH OF STANFORD.

At—Midnight Night Before Last.

He Had Been Ill, But His Disease was Not Regarded as Serious.

MENLO PARK, Cal., June 21.—[Associated Press.]—United States Senator Leland Stanford, died at his residence last night about midnight.

He passed away peacefully in his sleep at his residence at Palo Alto. Senator Stanford was in the best of his spirits yesterday. He took a drive around his stock farm and seemed as well as ever.

He retired shortly after, and about midnight his valet going into the senator's bedroom, discovered that he was dead. The senator looks perfectly natural as he lies in his bed, looking from all appearances to be in a deep sleep. His body will be embalmed.

For several weeks Senator Stanford has been very ill. His hearing was very much affected and a week ago he was hardly able to move about without assistance. He then said he was victim of gout and that by taking the hot water cure he would soon be all right.

The senator felt jovial and told how he enjoyed his dieters, and his utterances were endorsed by his wife. He said he did not intend to return to Washington, unless the Republican party needed him in congress, and no doubt he would have resigned his United States senatorship before very long.

He expressed a desire to live at least ten years longer, so that he would be able to bring his university at Palo Alto into prominence among the educational institutions of the country.

The first tidings of Senator Stanford's death which reached the outside world were sent by the Associated Press correspondent from the little town of Menlo, but a few minutes after it was discovered that the senator had breathed his last.

A friend of Senator Stanford's family received the sad news through the press this morning and at 4:24 o'clock a special train, bearing Charles Lathrop, Mrs. Stanford's brother, left San Francisco and arrived here at 5:30.

From an early hour this morning telegraphic messages of sympathy poured in upon Mrs. Stanford, and each incoming train was filled with personal friends, Southern Pacific railway officials and those who had been intimately associated with the senator in his many affairs.

Five Southern Pacific officials were among those who arrived on the 10:30 train from San Francisco—Manager A. N. Towne, J. A. Fillmore, H. E. Huntington, Auditor and Controller Launz, and Mr. Schwerin.

Mr. Huntington said in reply to an inquiry that since the senator's severe attack in Washington his death had been among the probabilities of each day, although it was thought by all his friends that he might survive for years; still it was known that he would never again resume his activity in railroad affairs, and it was known that he would resign his seat in United States senate unless the Republican party needed him.
